Best Practices and Lessons Learned – Bill reminded the group he was retiring in November. Everyone wished him the best. Bill also stated that his college had purchased electric spray guns for faculty to use to decontaminate lab and class areas. He said his was working well for that purpose. Central Georgia reported that they were trying to use all communication modes (BB, texting, email, etc.) to stay in constant contact with students. Central also only uses lab space for any lecture or lab work with students to ensure proper distancing. Bill stated that he kept a log of all student contacts and interactions.

No college reported any live incidents with COVID cases on campus. Albany had a few folks test positive and they quarantined for up to 4 weeks if needed.
